HUGO STINNES, GREAT GERMAN FINANCIER DIES

May Have Important Effect on Industrial Conditions

END YESTERDAY

Immense Interests Devolve on Sons of Germany's Richest Man—Speculation on Outcome

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Apr. 11.—Germany's strong man of industry is gone. With the death of Hugo Stinnes late yesterday and speculation is rife today as to the ultimate effect it will have on the internal situation and in the reparations settlement. Administration of his immense interests will devolve upon his two sons.

START CONSTRUCTION EAST CUMBERLAND AVE. BRIDGE

Construction of the East Cumberland avenue bridge has begun with the making of concrete bases. The remainder of the work will be done as rapidly as possible, it is understood.

The bridge which will be made entirely of concrete will supplant the present unsafe wooden structure which has for several years spanned the canal at that place. According to plans previously announced it will be made longer than the old bridge so that the water may better escape when the stream is swollen by heavy rains.

BUILDING PERMITS IN SOUTH LARGE

March Totals $49,074,670—Is Two Million Under Year Ago

ATLANTA, Ga., Apr. 11.—Building permits in ninety-one cities of sixteen southern states reached a total of $49,074,670 during the month of March, according to figures compiled by the survey department of G. L. Miller and Company, southern real estate bond house of this city. This amount is two million dollars under the totals of these cities for 1923.

While the actual amount of construction was slightly under the totals for last year, which was more than accounted for by the four million dollar loss credited to Houston, Texas, the number of cities showing gains was in excess of those showing a loss. The report is highly favorable, according to survey officials, for 1923 figures were abnormally high, and the past month's showing proves that another record year is in prospect for southern construction.

Birmingham entered the two million dollar class through a million dollar permit to the Southern railway covering the construction of the new Finley Yards. The largest item in Louisville's large total was the $800,000 factory and office of the Sanitary Manufacturing Company, with a $200,000 addition to the Commonwealth Life Insurance building. The majority of the Memphis total was a small building, with a gas storage tank, $364,000, being the largest permit.

Louisville led the cities of the farther south, with Dallas a close second. Permits for the larger centers are as follows: Baltimore, $6,233,320; Washington, $3,231,677; Louisville, $2,942,005; Dallas, $2,712,158; St. Louis, $2,560,825; Kansas City, $2,337,700; Memphis, $2,161,240; Birmingham, $2,086,740; Houston, $1,556,634; Houston metropolitan district, $2,176,184; Shreveport, $1,176,042; Richmond, $1,460,029; Atlanta, $1,258,017; New Orleans, $1,076,800.

$4,000 Is Found On Body Of Aged Claiborne County Woman

TAZEWELL, Tenn., Apr. 11.—When Mrs. Bettie Ann McGeorge, 90 years old, died March 30, at her home in the Bunch Hollow community of Claiborne county, she died leaving very little money, if any, as far as her eight children knew.

When her body was being prepared for burial more than $4,000 was found hidden in belts around her body, of which $50 was in gold. The bills were so faded by perspiration that in many instances it was difficult to tell by what banks they had been issued and the denomination.

At the request of the family, William Russell was named as administrator and deposited the money in the Claiborne County bank.

How Mrs. McGeorge came into possession of the money is a mystery, her family having been kept in ignorance of the horde. The woman had a little spending money from time to time, but not enough to cause its origin to be investigated, each child supposing that other members of the family gave the small sums to her, and nothing was thought of the matter.

CONTINUE FREE EATS TOMORROW

Sandwiches and Coffee Popular Feature of Buy In Middlesboro Week

Free "eats" at Shelburne's to patrons of members of the Merchants' Association have proved popular yesterday afternoon and today and the service will be continued through tomorrow, according to A. C. Shelburne.

Tickets are issued to patrons of the stores of the Merchants' Association members. These, when presented at Shelburne's entitles the bearer to a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee. The buns are baked at the Haynes' bakery with Log Mountain Milling company flour and the ham is furnished by Armour and Co. All these materials are donated free.

This free lunch service is one of the most popular features of the "Buy in Middlesboro" campaign and some of the members of the association have stated today that they believe it could be worked as a permanent accommodation for out of town visitors.

LIQUOR CASE AGAINST TIM BALL POSTPONED

The case of Tim Ball, charged with selling liquor to John Gann, was postponed this morning on account of the absence of a witness.

Gann, the prosecuting witness, had made an affidavit that a "one-eyed man called Tim" had sold him liquor. He did not know the last name of the man, he stated, and when Tim Ball was presented in police court he could not identify him. The prosecuting attorney will investigate the matter and if there is sufficient grounds to sustain the case it will come to trial soon.

NEW BRIDGE FOR FOUR MILE ORDERED

Highway Commission Approves—Major Helburn Says General Sentiment for Bond Issue

Rebuilding of the old bridge across the Cumberland River at Four Mile was ordered by the State Highway Commission which met at Frankfort this week. The rest of the work decided upon concerned other parts of the state. Important among these was the decision to rebuild the road from Frankfort to Louisville where is has become rough.

Next week the commission will tour Western Kentucky and settle disputes which have arisen concerning portions of road there. They will tour this section in about two weeks, it is understood, as they plan to go over all of the roads in the state.

Major E. S. Helburn, member of the highway commission, who returned from Frankfort this morning, said he found sentiment over the state mostly for the bond issue except in Central Kentucky where the people already have good roads and do not care to help pay for them elsewhere.

ROAD INSPECTION PARTY THRU HERE

Delegation From Cities Along Line Will Decide Opening of Highway

Middlesboro men will join the official road inspection trip here Wednesday morning and proceed with them over the Route A Highway to determine whether it is ready to open to the public at this time. A committee for this purpose was appointed by the Kiwanis Club yesterday. A letter concerning the inspection trip, received today from the committee in charge follows:

There will be an official road inspection trip over Dixie Route A, starting at Cumberland Gap, Wednesday morning April 16, 1924.

You and your friends are cordially invited to attend this road inspection to represent your city and county. Please write or wrie the Cumberland Hotel, Middlesboro, Ky., how many will likely be in your party.

Parties from northern points can take L. & N. sleeper and arrive at Middlesboro at 6:45 a. m. in time for breakfast and can take sleeper at 10 p. m. at Corbin for return trip.

Delegates from all sections will meet at the Cumberland Hotel, Middlesboro for breakfast at 7:30 a. m., as guests of the Middlesboro Kiwanis Club. At 9 a. m. cars will be provided and party taken to the historic Cumberland Gap, thence north to Pineville where short stop will be made with Kiwanis Club and citizens at the Continental Hotel; thence to Barbourville for dinner, guests of the Barbourville Kiwanis Club, at 12:30 p. m.

Party will leave Barbourville at 2 p. m. over the Barbourville-Dishman-Springs-Wilton-Corbin stretch of road, which with stretches in Laurel and Rockcastle counties are being constructed and maintained under this co-operative plan, that is providing an open road between Cincinnati, Mt. Vernon, East Bernstadt, Livingston, London, Corbin, and the south.

At 6:30 p. m. party will be guests of the Corbin Kiwanis Culb for supper, following which there will be special entertainment, and plans for announcing the formal opening made, for the entire through highway.

This conference is of the greatest importance to you and your city, and marks a new era in business and transportation for central and southeastern Kentucky, as it opens up a new short scenic highway between the north and the south, and is the biggest and most important co-operativetive road construction and improvement plan ever carried out in this country.

BILL PASSES ALLOWING BANKS REMITTANCE FEES

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Apr. 11.—Rep. L. J. Doss' house bill 186, as originally drafted, making it legal for banks to collect one-tenth of one per cent on remittances covering checks, the minimum fee to be 10 cents, was approved by Gov. Fields, although the senate on the last day of the session of the legislature, failed, 8 to 16 to pass the bill. The bill went to the governor in error.

The original bill contained a section which was eliminated by an amendment. The section eliminated read:

"It shall be lawful for all such banks and trust companies to charge a fee not in excess of one-tenth of one per cent on remittances covering checks, the minimum fee on any remittance, therefore to be ten cents."

The bill, although defeated by the senate, becomes a law 90 days after adjournment in March of the legislature.

SINCLAIR HELPED G. O. P. 1919 FUNDS

Senate Committee Seeks Information Regarding $1,000,000 Loan

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 11.—Returning to its inquiry into possible oil company contributions to the national political campaign funds the senate oil committee today sought information about the three million dollar loan made by the Chase National Bank of New York in 1919 to William Boyce Thompson, former chairman of the ways and means committee of the Republican national committee. Thompson is too ill to appear and his attorney, William Wallace, Jr., testified the loan was secured by fifty thousand shares of Sinclair oil stock but insisted it had nothing to do with campaign funds. He said Thompson had no part in the Republican financing until after the 1920 campaign and that the loan was repaid to the bank in full in 1919.

HIGHWAY BOARD UNDER NEW ORDER

Details of New Laws Adopted by Members State Road Commission

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Apr. 8.—The outstanding law of the 1924 general assembly, the highway commission reorganization measure, in mimeographed form, was ready for use by the commission Monday, the first mimeograph form of the law to be prepared. It was mimeographed under direction of Joe S. Boggs, state highway engineer and released through The Associated Press to its member newspapers of the state, following many inquiries on details of the law, Mr. Boggs said.

The features of the law, briefly outlined by Mr. Boggs, are:

Changes time of appointment of state highway commission from July 1 to Feb. 1, 1924, with two members serving for two years and two members for four years; appointments to be made by the governor, making the commission be-partisan.

Making the governor an ex-officio member of the commission with no power of voting.

Provides for position of executive secretary of the commission to serve four years, at a $4,000 annual salary and appointed by the governor and removed by him if found incompetent, to have charge of the labor expense fund, and check acts of the commission. The attorney general, Frank E. Daugherty ruled the governor may appoint the executive secretary, a new office, at any time.

Changes duty of highway engineer, enabling him to select employees and fix salaries in the department of roads and highways, subject to the approval of the commission. Mr. Boggs, under the law, holds office until June, 1924 when the commission will either re-elect him or elect a successor, the governor having no vote. Under the new law, however, the highway engineer may be removed by the commission whereas under the old lay he could not be removed except for cause.

The commissioners' salaries are fixed at $20 a day when actually serving, such as attending meetings, the annual salaries not to exceed $4,000 a year for each commissioner.

There is no change in the matter of road warrants, affecting the various counties, Mr. Boggs said.

The act (house bill 417), containing all the law of the highway commission, was introduced by Representative Frank L. Strange, democratic house floor leader, Bowling Green, on February 6, passed the house unanimously, Feb. 20, and the senate, 28 to 8, on March 5, with amendments, concurred in the house and sent to the governor, who approved the measure March 8.

DAUGHERTY PLAN FOR PROSECUTION

Witness Today Say Justice Department Failed to Act On Recommendations

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 11.—The Daugherty investigating committee today was told by J. J. McGraw, Tulsa, Okla. banker, formerly Republican national committeeman that Harry Daugherty told him in 1921 he would prosecute the Miller brothers on a charge of Oklahoma land frauds. He said all his convesations with Daugherty were in relation to criminal prosecutions in the Miller case but none of his recommendations were adopted by the Department of Justice. Another witness, William Tilghman of Oklahoma City, said he contracted with F. C. Quimby of New York for Oklahoma state rights on the Carpentier-Dempsey fight films for $7500. He said Quimby told him the matter was fixed with federal authorities and there would be no jail sentences for violating law prohibiting showing of fight pictures.

COOLIDGE URGES SENATE TO KEEP ON OWN GROUND

Sees Probe of Internal Revenue Burea As Encroachment

SENDS MESSAGE

Includes Letter From Mellon—President Says Special Prosecutor In Conflict With Law

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 11.—President Coolidge in a message to the senate today advised that body to maintain its "constitutional and legal rights" in conducting investigations. The message was couched in direct language, occasioned by the senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau employing as special prosecutor at its expense Senator Couzens of Michigan, Republican member of committees.

The president supplemented the message with a letter from Secretary Mellon in which Mellon declared that should "unnecessary interference with the proper exercise of his duty continue, neither I nor any other man of character can longer take the responsibility for the treasury." The employment of a special prosecutor was declared by the president to conflict with the law and the procedure was likely to throw the government into disorder. It is time we return to the government under and in accordance with the usual forms of the law of the land," the president said, adding "the state of the union requires immediate adoption of such a course."

FEW MONEY ORDERS DURING THIS WEEK

"Buy In Middlesboro" Campaign Is Having Its Effect, Is Belief

That the "Buy In Middlesboro" campaign is having some effect is indicated by the fact that less than half the usual amount of money orders have been sent out of town this week. As the majority of money transmitted in this manner goes to the mail order houses for merchandise, the presumption is that many local people are buying at home this week instead of patronizing the distant stores.

"I don't know whether or not the campaign has anything to do with the decrease in the amount of money sent out of town," R. P. Hutcheson, assistant postmaster stated today, "but I cannot attribute the decline in this branch of the postal business to any other source."

The Middlesboro Merchants' Association, through the press and other publicity mediums, have been waging a strong campaign to discourage the practice of sending money out of town for merchandise which could be bought as satisfactorily here in Middlesboro. In the huge posters announcing the campaign people were urged to patronize Middlesboro merchants who helped to maintain the city in its present splendid condition and these points were forcefully brought out at the public meeting preceding the campaign. It appears that the arguments are already having some effect.

A Thought

Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight!—Isa. 5:21.

A man's praises have very musical and charming accents in another's mouth, but very flat and untunable in his own.—Xenophon.

THE KIWANIS CLUB AND THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The action of the Kiwanis club yesterday in rejecting the idea of a Chamber of Commerce was quite surprising to many local people who had felt that now was, indeed, the opportune time for such a movement here. However, it seems improbable that this is the general consensus of opinion in Middlesboro when so many men, in and out of the Kiwanis club have expressed themselves in favor of such an organization.

Why this is not an "opportune time" for such a movement is slightly beyond comprehension. Is the opportune time when the coal industry is revived and business is running merrily on the false foundations of stability such conditions give? Or, more likely, is it when business is at its worst and every business man is so concerned with saving his own that he has no time to discuss further expansion for his city?

It is not necessarily a Chamber of Commerce, or Commercial club, or any other so named organization that we need. But we do need, greatly, some man or body of men whose whole business is the industrial expansion of Middlesboro. Moreover, we believe that the really far-seeing men of the city will not be very long in recognizing the necessity of this and procuring such a man.

The season for tourists is opening, yet we have no one to direct travelers here, no one to point out to them why they should stop in Middlesboro, no one to capitalize our beautiful and historic points and sell them to these tourists. Next fall many new industries or branch factories will seek new homes as they do every year. We have no one whose business it is to interest these people in Middlesboro or to call their attention to our resources. We need such a man and we can not expect to have a steady growth in Middlesboro until we do have such a person.

COUNSELS OF PERFECTION

Every now and then somebody hurls at us the damning label "high brow" and is disappointed if we do not at once crumble up and subside into nothingness.

Boiled down what is meant is that our parts of speech have somewhat more variety and range to them than is common. Or else that we use a foreign word when it has no American or English equivalent.

Pondering these things we came upon an article in the North American Review given up to the depressing thought that what the students at our universities most urgently stand in need of is a knowledge of English. The writer is not thinking of the foreign born, but of the perfectly good Americans who come from homes where books are unknown and who have been reared on the movies and the literature of the Sunday supplement. Not only are they unable to speak or write their own language correctly, but they do not understand it when it is spoken with precision, and are quite incapable of reading a page of any but the earliest kind of fiction. It is positively cruel to put a serious work into their hands and expect them to understand it and recite upon without further assistance.

If this is true, and there is assuredly much truth in it, there must be a remedy. What is that remedy?

And the answer is, English and plenty of it; grammar, themes, literature and public speaking. This is a campaign year. One part of the prescription can be taken easily enough. There is certain to be plenty of public speaking, though we would not want to undertake that it will greatly add either to our vocabulary or our instruction. Our advice would be, however, to pass up the raging stump and give a little time to the stage and the pulpit. It is there the best English may be heard. But the next suggestion will be resented by some of those who insist that English, as spoken in America, is a native tongue. Much of that tongue, we are told, is derived from other sources and those who develop a knowledge of French and Latin, of German and the rudiments of Greek, will not regret it.

College boy or girl who is going to Probably not. But where is the take that much trouble to the end that a little serious reading may be enjoyed? To begin with, there is nothing they care about so little as they do about serious reading. Unless, indeed, it should be good English.—Louisville Herald.

ANSWER POINTS OF PAY-AS-YOU-GO MEN

A response to the thirty-four points made by Judge Lewis L. Walker of Lancaster, Chairman of the pay-as-you-go organization, has been issued by the Kentucky Good Roads Association and distributed generally to the press and others throughout the State.

This response replies in detail to each one of the statements made by Judge Walker and covers seven typewritten pages. In so doing it defines the issues which thus far have developed in the discussion of the bond issue question.

The statement that the bond issue will mean increased taxation is answered with an explanation of how the present rate on motor vehicles and the new rate on gasoline will carry the entire burden and provide not only ample funds for maintenance, but something in addition for original construction of roads.

Expenditure of the amount of interest required for the bond issue is justified on the ground of good business, it being explained that it is just as sound as a proposal for the State to borrow money to make improvements and pay it off over a long period of years by easy payments as it is for the farmer to borrow money from a Federal Land Bank for this same purpose. The total amount of interest actually paid during the period of thirty years, it is pointed out, would be less than 6 per cent of the revenues which will accrue to the State of Kentucky during that time.

Besides the pressing needs of the University and other state institutions being cared for, the bond issue will provide construction for an additional 2800 miles of road, thereby substantially completing a mileage equal to the primary system as originally defined by the law of 1920.

The statement repeatedly calls attention to the fact that those opposing the bond issue rely largely upon the unfounded tax bugaboo for an argument.

Reference is made to the great accomplishments of other States now building by bond issue and also to the fact that our own Highway Commission is just as competent and just as trustworthy to carry out the enlarged plan of road construction as the Commissions of other States, where much greater sums are being expended.

The Efficiency Commission's report, so often referred to by pay-as-you-go advocates, is described as a piece of special pleading apparently gotten out to influence the Legislature against submitting the bonds to a vote of the people. Attention is called to several specific errors of fact in this report.

The pay-as-you-go plan is criticised because it will continuously be exposed to legislative interference by diversion of funds now devoted to road purposes to some other State need. Such a result, it is argued, would have the effect of materially slowing down the road building program in many sections still in the mud. If the people vote a bond issue there can be no such interference.

It is pointed out that the motorists who now use that portion of the designated primary system which has not yet been built or taken over for maintenance by the State, are suffering a loss of not less than $5,000,000 a year in the operation of their machines.

Judge Walker is called upon to make good his charge that the "advocates (of the bond issue) openly boast that there will be a large corruption fund to carry this bond issue at the November election." The charge is defied as being absolutely untrue and the statement made that it was merely for the purpose of influencing senators to refuse to allow the people to vote on the proposition.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

FRIDAY

The Winning of a Great Prize

Read Mt. 19:27-20:16. Text: 19:29. And every one that hath left brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or children, or land, for my name's sake, shall receive a hundredfold, and shall inherit eternal life.

"Suppose that a man has begun the wonderful Christian way of living. He is reaching out with the energy of faith to work together with the will of God under the leadership of Jesus Christ, he is winning one of the great prizes of life, the growing conviction of immortality."

Meditation: Jesus was able to see beyond the experience called death and know that death was but an incident. He continually urged his disciples to make the largest possible investment in fellowship and in service, for the glories of the life eternal would far more than compensate for any possible losses or sorrows of life in the flesh. He urged his disciples to contend manfully for this prize which the Father longs to give to those who are prepared to use the gift of eternal life.

Personal Question: What is the best paying investment I am making?

Prayer: Our Father God, we pray that we may with ever more eagerness seek thee. Make us rejoice in thee, O Lord, that we may have vision of thy glory and enter into thy fellowship. Let obedience be our great desire and thy love our eternal consolation, through Christ. Amen.

Discretion—

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM.

COOKING odors often tell us what our neighbor's going to eat. Fumes that come sometimes counsel us to admit she's got a treat. Baked potatoes, corn au gratin, frying eggs and kidney stew. Kitchen smells that aren't forgotten; ones that sure appeal to you.

When you're hungry as the dickens, after working all day long, floating wafts of broiling chickens make the tummy feel all wrong. Appetites are pesky critters, calling on a man to eat, buckwheat cakes or sweet corn fritters; Boston beans or tender meat.

Funny how you speed your walking when a kitchen window's passed. And you hope, there's no use talking, that your supper long will last. Thank your nostrils for the pleasure that the smell of cooking gives. Thank your neighbor, in a measure, if the smell's from where he lives.

Yea, these odors from the kitchen, floating on the evening air, keep a fellow fairly itchin' for his supper table share. Cook away and folks won't mind it; gladly will the fumes be nosed. But, when you are cooking, garlic keep your kitchen window closed.

NO. 19—THE EASTER BUNNY ARRIVES

"Did you see a chocolate rabbit with one ear?"

A very unexpected person made a visit to Doofunny Land. You would think he'd be too awfully busy right at this time to go to such a far-away country, but there he was, long ears and short tail and all. It was the Easter Bunny.

Nancy and Nick and Mister Fuzz Wuzz met him on the road, peering this way and that as though he was looking for something.

"How do you do!" he said, "did you see a chocolate rabbit with one ear, and a hollow hen?"

Mister Fuzz Wuzz laughed. "With one ear and a hollow hen! What did he want with a hollow hen?"

"It's no time for joking," said the Easter Bunny. "I asked you if you had seen a hollow hen and a one-eared chocolate rabbit?"

"Well, why didn't you say so!" exclaimed Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "You said a rabbit with one ear and a hol—"

"Oh, shush!" said the newcomer. "I haven't time to waste. My Easter baskets are all ready but one, and it was ready, too, but when I had my back turned to get some tiny eggs to put into the basket, the bunny and hen skipped off. All that was left was one of the bunny's ears and a few crumbs of maple sugar of the hen. I've been to Sugar Plum Land, but they are not there, and to Toy Land, but they are not there either! Doofunny Land was the only place I could thing of after that so I came here. Are you sure you didn't see them?"

"No, we didn't," said the Twins.

"And I didn't," said Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "However, there are a lot of people in Doofunny Land you haven't asked yet. Come along, Bunny, we'll go with you."

"See a bunny and a chicken?" exclaimed the patent-leather cat. "No, I didn't. Did you friend dog?" For the cat and dog had made up and were now living peacefully.

"Nope!" said the dog. "But I like chocolate. I'm sorry I didn't. And I like maple sugar, too."

Next they met, let me see, I think it was the tin mouse.

"Did I see a chocolate bunny and a maple-sugar hollow hen? No, I didn't!" And he wiggled his long horse-hair whiskers. "Where did you say you left the basket with the chocolate ear in it? It might make a meal."

Never mind where I left it," said the Easter Bunny sharply. "That's one reason I wish to find the runaways. Before they can tell my secrets. And just before taking the baskets around to the children's houses, I always warn the basket people not to tell, either."

"Well, I didn't see either of them," squeaked the mouse, running away.

"See a rabbit and hen?" cried all the Humpty Dumpty Circus animals. "No, we didn't, but we wish we had!"

And the way they licked their lips made the Easter Bunny shiver.

"Why, that's what chocolate bunnies and sugar hens are for," laughed Nancy, "and I hope you will find them, so the child for whom the basket is intended won't be disappointed."

"That's so," laughed the bunny amiably. "But I don't mind the children eating them."

When There Is April

Who would fear death when ther
Is April?
Like a flame, like a song—
To heal all who have lived with yearning;
Year through, life long.

When there is April with fulfilment
For longing and for pain,
For every reaching hand that beauty
Has lured in vain.
Who would shrink from the earth
With slim rain hands that reach
Through the doors of life and call them
Who love her speech,

GOOD MANNERS

THE ESCORT AT NIGHT

In accompanying a lady anywhere at night, whether down the steps of a house, or when walking, a gentleman always offers his arm.

Stephens Sharpshooting

The greatest problem of the ages is not one of bridging mighty chasms or rivers but of bridging the gulf between God and sinful man, making it possible for man to be brought back to God.

Primarily sin caused the uplifting of the cross.

Multitudes of church members are looking for a Savior who will let them wallow in their worldliness.

The cross is the ray of hope for this heart-broken, sin-cursed world.

Oh, hell-pursued, devil-pursued sinner, there's help and safety for you in the blood of the cross.

Fear and sin are removed and rest comes when the Christ of Calvary is accepted as Savior.

The cross has the power to give life to the darkest, most depraved savage on earth.

Lost one, if you are shackled by sin and bound by Satan's power you may have life and hope if you look to Christ and accept the peace laid down by Him.

DRAMATIC PLOT CENTER OF "THE COVERED WAGON"

Emerson Hough's splendid romance of the Oregon trail, "The Covered Wagon," picturized by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, continues to attract large audiences in New York Boston, Chicago and other large cities where it has been shown, and the management of the Manring theatre will present to their patrons on Saturday, April 12, matinee and night, this epic production.

Especially thrilling are the scenes showing the crossing of the Platte river by the hundreds of swimming oxen and horses drawing the wagons floated by great logs of wood lashed to the wheels. The making of this portion of the picture was undoubtedly the most perilous enterprise ever undertaken in the field of cinema art. Other thrilling scenes in "The Covered Wagon," that were almost as perilous in the making as the river scene, are the prairie fire, the Indian attack on the wagon train at Old Fort Bridger, and the buffalo hunt, which was made on an island in the Great Salt Lake and in which the only large herd of buffalo now in existence was used. The love story, which follows closely Emerson Hough's original narrative links together these episodes of high adventure in a most interesting and dramatic manner.

TO FIX DRAINS AT CORNER 19TH AND CUMBERLAND

The drainage system at the corner of Nineteenth street and Cumberland avenue will receive the attention of the street cleaning department soon. It is thought that it has become clogged at some point distant from the opening.

A large pond is formed on the corner in front of the Sterchi Bros. and Tennent store with every rain. A large piece of concrete was taken from the opening at one time but this failed to allow the water to escape.

FABLES ON HEALTH

When Mr. Mann arrived at the gymnasium for the first time, he felt like a high school boy at his first dance. It seemed silly that a lot of fat gents should be romping around in racing trunks.

So he called the physical director aside and asked him, rather timidly, where to begin and what to do first.

"The first requirement is common sense," the director said tersely.

"It's just common sense that men should relax and rest, that they should bathe for stimulation of circulation as well as for cleanliness; that they should get exercise, and that they should learn how to work.

"Most people think exercise is just a matter of doing so many jumping-jack stunts. You can take off weight, or you can put it on with exercise. You can actually get rest. Or you can tire yourself out.

"There are exercises for the muscles, for the bones of the body and for internal organs.

GINSBURG'S

Don't Lose Sight of the Food Value
of Your Bakings

Plain flour has a large amount of food value but it must be combined with good baking powder in order to retain this value.

Most self rising flours are not successful because they do not raise the bakings to the proper lightness. This means a certain loss of nutrition because they are heavy and hard to digest.

Every time you eat food that does not properly digest you do not get the full nutritional value—you are over-taxing your stomach. Nourishing and perfect bakings are what good health demands. The one sure way is—use pure flour and good baking powder.

If you want to find what thousands of housewives have learned—make some biscuits with self-rising flour—then make some with good plain flour and Calumet Baking Powder—notice the great difference. One trial will satisfy you. Your health demands that you make the experiment.

Those who know—millions of housewives, domestic science teachers, big hotels, restaurants, bakeries and railroads will not use anything but Calumet, the Economy Baking Powder.

Play safe—use Calumet and plain flour. It is the most economical and satisfactory, where light, wholesome and pure foods are desired.

Correspondent Sees Danger In The Reparations Report

By Milton Bronner

PARIS, April 6.—(By Wireless)—Peison—insofar as Americans are concerned that is what the report of the reparations committee should be labeled.

This opinion is based on a careful inspection of the recommendations of the commission.

If its recommendations are followed and if Wall Street bankers can put it over, Americans will be asked to throw good money after bad.

In other words, Americans, having loaned France billions of dollars through our government during the war, no penny of which has been repaid, international bankers now are preparing to ask Americans to subscribe a loan of from $250,000,000 to $750,000,000 to hand to Germany, which in turn is to hand it over to France.

Here's how it works:

The committees on Germany's ability to pay and on Germany's capital abroad have practically completed their reports which are now being drafted. Both reports are unanimous and, unless a hitch occurs, will be presented to the reparations commission soon. They are very lengthy and go into great detail.

France has won the greater Maine. Instead of the presence of Americans on the commission putting a block to French claims, it has encouraged them.

France continues in the Ruhr and Rhineland.

France wins the contention that during a five-year moratorium on money payments, Germany nevertheless shall pay in money for the upkeep of armies of occupation and cost of commissions.

In addition to that Germany shall pay in material vast amounts of coal, coke and dyes.

I am reliably informed that no English-speaking economist believes Germany possibly can pay what is demanded of her, especially as her best industrial regions are interfered with by the French.

But American members of the committees insisted that Germany could and should pay all France asked. To enable her to do so while the moratorium is in force, the commission will recommend an international loan to Germany, financed principally in the United States and England.

But the money thus advanced will not be used to put Germany on her feet, nor to reconstruct her industrially. It will be employed to make payments to France.

The result when the moratorium ceases will be that Germany will once more be up against it. Indeed, economists here believe that even with a big loan Germany will be in difficulties before the end of the second year of the moratorium.

The problem for Americans to think about is the proposed loan flotation.

The loan will not be guaranteed on Germany's railway system because that's earmarked for other purposes.

The loan will not take any precedence of money reparation payments to the allies because France will not stand for that.

In spite of all camouflaged wording the loan simply would be handing over another huge sum to France with Germany acting simply as borrower and intermediary.

America is still looked upon by all continental nations as a rich uncle who is also a big boob.

American members of the commission expect to leave for home during the middle of this month.

YOUR CHECKS--Do You Give Them The Same Protection You Give Your Money?

More Than $50,000,000 Lost Every Year Thru Check Frauds

SUPER-SAFETY INSURANCE CHECKS

THE WORLD'S SAFEST BANK CHECKS PROVIDED FOR YOU AT OUR BANK

There Is A Check Fraud Every 3½ Minutes

These Super-Safety Insured Checks are made on a special safety paper and should an attempt be made to alter one of them, either by erasure, knife or acid the paper fairly shrieks the crime.

Each check is marked "Insured" and "Protected by the Williams J. Burns International Detective Agency, Inc." which acts as an effective "Keep Off" notice to both amateur and professional check artists.

Besides, each depositor is insured up to the amount of $1,000 against fraudulent alteration of his checks with the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Co. Call and get your copy of "Stories of Check Raisers—and How to Protect Yourself," written by Detective William J. Burns.
